

Healthcare Facility COVID Response: Past, Present & Future

Lessons learned, shared current approaches, plans for future event management

HESGNY, the official NYC chapter for ASHE, invites you to join us for our 2021 Educational and Vendor EXPO November 4th, 2021 at Russo's on the Bay. This will be the largest healthcare engineering gathering since before the COVID pandemic. Keynote speakers are Robert Duval, FD & Fire Investigator NFPA, Janice Halloran Emergency Management NYC H+H, Jeff Henne, Past President ASHE.

We are adopting an approach where healthcare professionals and vendors will have the opportunity to share experiences and learn about innovative solutions. Show is geared towards direct hospital staff as well as architects, construction managers, service providers and vendors.

The itinerary includes breakfast followed by formal and informal educational segments, multiple interactions with peers and industry professionals, multidisciplinary panel discussion, raffles ending with open cocktail hour. The day provides accredited CEUs. Vendors will present their field proven and novel solutions.

The many perspectives presented and discussed will include infection control, emergency management, facility response, outside construction management and the latest codes & standards requirements from various AHJs and code officials.

Venue includes multiple rooms for educational seminars, vendor booths and formal luncheon.

Over the upcoming weeks we will distribute additional information for both attendees and vendors. In the interim, we encourage all those interested in speaking, sponsoring and/or exhibiting to contact us at their earliest convenience.
